

The International Skeletal Society (ISS) celebrates the life and achievement of Dr. Daniel Vanel, who passed away on June 17, 2021. With over 200 scientific publications and numerous book chapters, he was a master in radiology, especially regarding bone disease, and well understood and appreciated pathology with expert radiologic-pathologic correlation. He had great passion for his job and was a patient teacher. His contributions to the International Skeletal Society meeting were tremendous, and he will be greatly missed, from submitting many fantastic radiologic-pathologic-surgical correlation cases to imparting knowledge with members and participants alike during discussions and didactics. He brought the International Skeletal Society participation from new continents. In addition to his medical skills, he had personal qualities that are rarely encountered. As a Parisian, he had long ago in 2008 decided to settle in Bologna, a city which he truly loved and grew to know, even better than most Bolognese. He was a wonderful resource of information and promoted participation in cultural events, including exhibitions and concerts, for which he was greatly admired. As a professional magician and art expert, he sincerely loved life and knew how to live. His family and friends worldwide will forever remember his great sense of humor and contagious smile. Condolences and sympathy to his family, friends, and colleagues.
